SYNTHESIZED OBSERVATIONS

Key Findings

01

VALIDATED FLOW

Clear Main Flow

All 3 users completed the main flow successfully from uploading an outfit photo to receiving curated recommendations.

Core flow shows high overall viability and effortless navigation across users.

02

FRICTION POINT

Style Selection

Two users hesitated when choosing their personal style. Abstract wording without visual mood examples increased cognitive effort.

Improvement: Make style options more visual and easier to understand.

03

EXPECTATION GAP

Recommendation Clarity

One user wanted to know why an accessory was recommended, seeking confirmation of color and occasion harmony.

Improvement: Add a short “Why this matches” explanation.

04

VALIDATED ACTION

Saving a Look

All users easily found and used the Save Look action without hesitation or assistance.

Placement, icon semantics, and saving mechanism confirmed as highly intuitive.

ACTIONABLE NEXT STEPS

Design Improvements

IMPROVEMENT 01 Personal Style Selection

BEFORE

Style selection may feel unclear.

AFTER

Use clearer visual style options with simple labels.

IMPROVEMENT 02 Recommendation Rationale

BEFORE

Users may not understand accessory recommendations.

AFTER

Add “Why this matches” below each recommendation.

IMPROVEMENT 03 Look Composition Guidance

BEFORE

Creating a complete look may need more guidance.

AFTER

Add clearer visual guidance when combining outfits and accessories.

KEY TAKEAWAY

“Usability testing showed that the main Adorna flow was easy to understand. Clearer style selection and recommendation explanations could make the experience more intuitive.”

NEXT STEPS

- Test with more users.
- Improve recommendation explanations.
- Improve personalization.
- Retest the updated prototype.
